

Roger Linas

APRAT - Spain

Became a firefighter in 1985, at Generalitat de Catalunya Fire and Rescue Service, when he was really young, and nowadays is still on duty. All his career has worked in the metropolitan area of Barcelona, today as officer and Fire Station Chief. Is car crash instructor in his F&R Service since 1994.

He was participant as team leader in several regional, national and international events and he became national assessor of APRAT in 2008 and WRO assessor in 2011.

Until today, he has been assessor in six WRC, usually as command assessor.

He has been the regionals and nationals challenge's responsible of APRAT during the last years.

He studied as a nurse when he was a young firefighter and did two postgraduate courses related with the Emergency Management, and he is currently teacher at the Barcelona University in a Master for medical and nurse students whom want to work in emergencies.